Did You Know?
Give businesses along your railroad a boost with customized signs!

Virtually any sign can be modified to include a local retailer.

Using your computer, or rub-on transfers, add a simple message like "Now Available at," followed by the store name, phone numbers or a Web site.

Just cut and glue over or slightly below the main image, and install in a busy location to complete your project.

Did You Know?

Got a local industry that needs equipment in a hurry or at a good price? Military surplus might be the answer. Once their days in the service are over, a lot of surplus equipment is put up for auction.

Many items such as clothing, tools, trucks, forklifts, construction equipment, containers, railroad equipment and some types of aircraft can be sold with little or no modification, and are eagerly sought by contractors and businesses. Much of it is also resold — campers and outdoor enthusiasts have been able to buy all kinds of gear from Military Surplus stores for decades.

Did You Know?

Exposed to dust, dirt, cinders, exhaust, spills, grime, sunlight and weather, the paint on railroad equipment takes a beating, and a freshly painted car or engine begins to show wear right away.

While our models are well protected in the train room, a wide range of paints and other materials are available to add signs of age and wear.

One of the easiest to add is a coat of flat finish, sprayed or airbrushed over the entire model — remember to mask any windows on engines or passenger cars first.

Special weathering paints are also available to simulate grime, rust and dirt. These can be thinned and sprayed in light coats, or drybrushed in specific locations.
